The Democratic State Ticket.

The Personnel of the Candidates and Their Fitness for the Places They Are Named.

All of Them Are of Humble Origin and Consequently Very Popular.

THE LEADERS.

Personnel of the Democratic Candidates for State Offices.

For Lieutenant Governor, JOHN C. NELSON.

For Judge of Supreme Court, JOHN R. COFFROTH.

For Secretary of State, ROBERT W. MIERS.

For Auditor of State, CHARLES A. MUNSON.

For Treasurer of State, THOMAS BYRNE.

For Clerk of Supreme Court, MARTIN J. KREUGER.

For Attorney General, HUGH D. McMULLEN.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction, ANDREW M. SWEENEY.

The democratic state ticket heads THE SENTINEL columns and it is with the brightest prospects of success it is placed there. No clearer, better or more popular democratic ticket was ever presented for the suffrage of the people of Indiana, and a sketch of the gentlemen will interest:

JOHN C. NELSON.

Captain John C. Nelson was born in Adams county, Ohio, February 23, 1841. His life was without important or noteworthy events until he came to the age of twenty, when, the war breaking out, he enlisted October 22, 1861, in the Seventieth Ohio Volunteers. He was gradually promoted from the ranks until he reached the office of captain, which rank he held until he was mustered out August 22, 1865. He moved to Logansport in July, 1866, and entered into the boot and shoe trade, which he followed for a year. He began the study of law in the office of McConnell & Winfield, and afterward graduated from the Albany law school in June, 1870. He was actively engaged in the practice of law until 1877, when he was appointed judge of the superior court of Cass county by Governor Williams. He served for two years under this appointment and was then elected his own successor. He served as judge during the four years' term for which he was elected, when by special enactment of the legislature the court was abolished, when he again resumed the active practice of the law. He served a term of four years as city attorney, and is now of the firm of Nelson & Myers, and has one of the best practices in Cass county. He has been requested to accept the nomination for congress, but has at all times declined, as he has a similar invitation to serve as state senator. He is married and has five children. He was wounded twice during the war, the first time being through the back on the 28th day of July, 1864, while in front of Atlanta, on account of which wound he now draws a pension. He served on General Hazen's staff as commissary of masters during the last year of the war, and was with Sherman from first to last. He is now senior vice commander of the G. A. R., of Logansport. He has always taken an active part in the state campaigns, and is well known throughout the northern part of the state for his ability as a public speaker.

JOHN R. COFFROTH.

John R. Coffroth, one of the ablest lawyers of the state, was born at Greencastle, Pa., August 11, 1828. His father and grandfather, who were of German descent, were natives of Maryland, and his mother, who was of English parentage, was a native of Virginia. Mr. Coffroth received a good education and began the study of law with Hon. James X. McLaughlin, at Chambersburg, Pa. He was admitted to the bar in November, 1848, and in May, 1849, he moved to Huntington, this state, where he commenced the practice of law. In February, 1860, he moved to Lafayette where he has since resided and engaged in the practice of his profession. He was admitted to practice in the supreme court in 1851, and in the United States supreme court in 1866. He has always taken great interest in educational matters. He was a trustee of Purdue University for several years, and part of that time was president of the board. He has been a member of the legislature several terms. In 1866 he was a candidate for the office of attorney general, and in 1868 and 1872 he was on the democratic ticket as a candidate for elector for the state at large, each time making a canvass of the state. In 1878 he was the unanimous choice of the democracy of the district for congress, but he declined the honor on account of private business. He was married to Susan Randolph in 1864, and has two children, a son and a daughter. He has made for himself an enviable reputation as an advocate, being clear, concise and fluent. He is possessed of great energy and never permits himself to become discouraged or overcome. His practice has been large and varied. He weighs matters deliberately before taking action, but when a conclusion is formed for practical purposes, he moves with little respect to adverse circumstances. He has been a democrat and an active partisan, but has generally avoided political office, although he has been supported by the party for public position a number of times.

ROBERT W. MIERS.

Robert W. Miers was born in Decatur county, this state, January 27, 1848. He was raised on the farm, and received a good common school education. At the age of twenty-one years he went to the academy at Hartsville to complete his studies and prepare himself for a course in college. In 1868 he entered the state university at Bloomington, and graduated in 1870. He graduated in the law department of the college the following year. In 1873 he was elected prosecuting attorney for the district, which was composed of Monroe, Lawrence and Orange counties, and was regarded as one of the reliably republican districts. He was re-elected in 1875, and in 1877 was elected representative of Monroe county, being the only democrat elected from that county since the war. He has twice been chosen trustee for the state university, and is now on his second term. Upon the death of Judge Wilson, of the tenth judicial district, he was appointed to fill the unexpired term. He is married and has two children.

CHARLES A. MUNSON.

The candidate for state auditor, Charles A. Munson, was born and raised in Fort Wayne, and at the age of fifteen he became the support of his widowed mother and her family. He clerked for various firms until he was nineteen years old, when he enlisted in the United States navy at Cincinnati, and was assigned to the ironclad Chillootho on the Mississippi river. He was rapidly promoted here, and in a short time he became the third officer of the vessel. He resigned in 1863 because of disability and after the war he entered into a wholesale grocery partnership at Fort Wayne. In 1874 he went to the council in Fort Wayne, and in 1876 and 1878 he was elected sheriff of Allen county. The last time being elected by 4,384 majority. In 1880 he was a member of the state central committee. He is a courteous, large-hearted, generous man, as companionable as one could wish, and a strong man on any ticket. He has many personal characteristics which make friends for him in politics where other men fail, and he is in every way deserving of the nomination by the convention.

THOMAS B. BYRNE.

Hon. Thomas B. Byrne, the nominee for state treasurer, was born in Newark, N. J., August 24, 1844. His father died when he was but five years of age, and his mother moving back to her home in New York City, he went with her and remained there until he was nineteen years of age. He was then sent west to represent a large tobacco and cotton firm during the war, which position he held till 1869, when he went into the cotton and tobacco business for himself, and in which he is still engaged. He has held prominent positions in the Vanderburg democratic organizations, having been chairman of the county conventions several times, and was a member of the democratic state central committee in 1874 and 1876. He was a candidate for the nomination for state treasurer before the convention four years ago, and his prominence in politics and his success as an organizer, a leader and a warrior for the principles of his party have drawn around him a host of friends who are to be counted all over the state. He is a single man, whole souled, hearty, generous, firm and aggressive in politics, and will prove to be a tower of strength, not only in his county and district, but throughout all the borders of the state.

MARTIN J. KREUGER.

Martin J. Kreuger, the nominee for clerk of the supreme court, is thirty-three years of age and has always been a democrat, casting his first vote for Tilden and Hendricks. His family came from Germany and located in Michigan City in 1864, and in 1870 Kreuger started out to make a living. He worked at different things for a while, and finally started west, in a special (freight) car. At Matteson, Ill., he responded to an urgent call from the conductor to "get off" and walking to Chicago, a distance of twenty-six miles, he borrowed $5 from his brother and followed the "Star of Empire" as far west as Mendota, Ill., where he found employment as a farm hand at $13 per month; he continued to work on farms for some time, but afterwards returned to Michigan City and studied law. He was elected city clerk in 1879, again in 1881, and again in 1883; representative of LaPorte county in 1884 and a member of the common council of Michigan City in 1885, this unanimously and in a republican ward. He acted as deputy county treasurer continually since 1878 under three different county treasurers, and as such has annually collected and accounted for some $20,000 to $30,000 in taxes to the entire satisfaction of his principal and the people. For a brief period he published the Freie Presse, a German paper, but being unable to give his personal attention to the paper he merged it with the LaPorte Journal.

HUGH D. McMULLEN.

Hon. Hugh D. McMullen was born in Dearborn county, December 11, 1836. He was raised on the farm, and in 1858 entered the freshman class at Asbury university, and at the completion of the year's course he entered the state university, where he graduated in 1862. He studied law in his own office and never had a dollar to aid him except what he earned with his own hands. Eighteen years ago he was elected prosecuting attorney, and was a member of the two last legislatures of the state, the first session serving as chairman of the judiciary committee and in the last as chairman of the committee on ways and means. Mr. McMullen is of Irish descent, his grandfather having been a native of Belfast, Ireland. Mr. McMullen is married and has a family of seven boys.

PROFESSOR ANDREW M. SWEENEY.

Prof. A. M. Sweeney, nominated for the office of superintendent of public instruction, is about thirty-three years old, and one of the best educated men in the state. He speaks French and German fluently, is a fine Latin and Greek scholar and perfectly familiar with the educational interests of the state and the country. He has been connected with the schools of southern Indiana for the past fifteen years, having begun his labors as a teacher in the common schools, afterwards becoming principal of the Jasper high school and subsequently superintendent of Dubois county, which position he now holds. He has been unwavering in his devotion to his profession, and has done much toward elevating the standard of education and developing the schools of his country. He possesses good social qualities, makes friends easily and apparently without effort, and is full of energy and vim. If Professor Sweeney were a politician he would fill the popular idea of a "hustler."

Yesterday the marriage of Rev. Walter Von Schenck and Miss Henrietta Vatt took place at the bride's residence. The Pennsylvania company sends all the empty freight cars they can get to the west where they are to be loaded with farm products.

Father Beck, the esteemed chaplain of St. Joseph's hospital, to-day entertained at dinner, in the spacious dining hall, a distinguished party of clergymen. Rev. Father Moench, pastor of St. Michael's church, Plymouth, who has just returned from a visit to Europe and who is favorably remembered as Father Oechterling's assistant in this city, will reach this city on his return trip tomorrow noon.

The following patents have been issued to Indiana inventors: Gottlieb Erber, Indianapolis, extension table; Granville and I. Keeling, Onward, machine for making picket fences; William P. Myer, Indianapolis, hoisting bucket; Robert Pointdexter, Indianapolis, saw set; William H. Reppert, Flora, wire fence machine; Elias S. Stone, Lagro, barrel truck.

A Violent Storm.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 12.—An Akron (O.) special, says a storm of unusual violence swept over the southern part of that county, last night. Trees were snapped off and whole orchards were prostrated. A number of cattle were killed.

BECK!

The Senator Chats on Cutting,

And Says the Administration is Both Courageous and Aggressive Against Mexico.

The Imprisoned Knights of Labor Released from Jail at Parsons.

SENATOR BECK

Compliments the Democratic Administration.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 12.—Senator Beck informed a Sun correspondent that he does not believe any man with ordinary intelligence can question for one moment, the aggressiveness of the present administration in battling with all public questions, be they foreign or domestic. He stated most emphatically that there is no ground for doubting the courage of the state department in dealing with the Cutting case; on the contrary the senator is inclined to think that the secretary of state has, if anything, been too aggressive in the Mexican matter.

He says the United States should try to induce Mexico to repeal the law which renders an American citizen punishable in Mexico for his utterances in the United States. It is a bad law and will create mischief so long as it remains upon the statute book, but we cannot stain anything by declaring war against Mexico, for if we did we would simply place ourselves in the attitude of a big man picking a quarrel with a small boy.

Knights of Labor Released.

PARSONS, Kan., Aug. 12.—The executive committee of the Knights of Labor, who for the past forty-five days have been confined in the county jail for non-payment of fines imposed for conspiracy against the Missouri Railway company, were to-day released by the county commissioners. The Knights of Labor were given to understand that if they pay the costs of the suit the committee would be released, the fines to be held against them to secure future good behavior.

Foreign News.

BELFAST, Aug. 12.—Groups of idlers continue to hang about and it is still necessary to retain the troops.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—England has proclaimed a protectorate over the Ellice Islands in the South Pacific ocean.

SACRED SERVICE.

Young Catholic Women Join the Sisterhood and Pledge Their Lives to God.

Redolent with fresh cut flowers, beautiful altar lace, burning tapers and golden vestments of the great prelate, aided by the surplised priest, the chapel of St. Joseph's convent, the mother house in America of the poor handmaids of Christ, a chapel filled with pious worshippers, this morning presented a scene lovely to behold and long to be remembered. A number of happy maidens gave themselves to God, and by their holy promises vowed to serve the poor, and them, too, that die of pestilence, whether it be cholera, small-pox the deadly yellow fever or the black crime of manslaughter. This good sister of charity is everywhere, and whilst she is ubiquitous, she is everywhere the holy and cheerful religious lady. "Cheerfulness is a blessing," and surely the good and holy ladies under the wimple of St. Joseph's poor handmaid community, carry not only cheerfulness, but edification and the halo of sanctified happiness to souls that are hampered by the worldly spirit, whether among them that have despaired of God's mercy, met with accident on rail or boat, in matters spiritual or civil, in neglect of the teachings of ancestors or in failure to observe ever God's and neighbor's law of charity—everywhere these holy ladies of God's choice, minister to the wayfaring man.

Right Rev. Bishop Dwenger, whose pleasure as head of the great diocese of Fort Wayne it is to preside over such important ceremonies, was the celebrant of the grand rites of the Catholic church prescribed on such occasions. He was aided by the Rev. Father Heite, of Lafayette, superior in that city, of the Fathers of St. Francis, who have charge of the church of St. Boniface, which numbers about 460 families, and by the Rev. Chaplain Beck, the diocesan chancellor and the bishop's private secretary Lang.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop preached an excellent sermon on the sacrifice of womanhood to the sick and suffering for love of the Redeemer and Christ the God, whose great glory above all else these pure and holy souls seek, regardless of comfort and the world's oft unrewarded charity. The sermon was replete of the pictures of hardship in religious life, and was tinged with scriptural quotations of Christ's promises of reward for abandoning the world and friends to serve God through His creatures.

The distinguished prelate then received the professions of religious life from sixteen devout women, four of them being for life.

MAJOR MUNSON.

His Popular Nomination and Hearty Response.

Speaking of Major Munson's nomination the Indianapolis News says:

For auditor of state the following nominations were made: Charles A. Munson, of Allen; Dr. A. B. Pitzer, of Tippecanoe; Gerard Reiter, of Knox.

Pitzer, 275; Reiter, 337; Munson, 618; and as Munson had 24 more votes than a majority he was declared to be the nominee.

This was the nomination over which there has been the most strife. The three candidates were well fortified in their respective localities, but as developments showed each made inroads upon the district of his opponent. The field had been thoroughly worked. The slate thus far fixed up weeks ago, and which, during that time, has had the lead without reasonable doubt until within a few days, had so far been entirely able to control the convention. A determined fight was here made to break the tide of victory. Munson was evidently the favorite as against either of his competitors, and appeared to be strong enough on the first ballot to down the field. There was a threat of combination against Munson, and following the first ballot there was much earnest spiking. Before the result of the first ballot was made known Tippecanoe county changed her vote and threw it solid for Munson. Clinton county abandoned Reiter and went solid to Munson. Other changes were offered, but the chairman announced that there was already a nomination without the changes named.

The nomination was received with a wild hurrah. The nominee, in his impetuous style mounted a chair, and, coatless, and suffused with smiles and blushes, returned thanks for the compliment, and promised to work, live and die with the democratic party.

The Indianapolis Sentinel gave Major Munson's speech as follows:

Mr. President and Fellow Democrats: With heartfelt gratitude I thank you for the high honor you have conferred upon me to-day. I accept the nomination as a tribute to the gallant democracy of Allen county and northern Indiana. Henceforth we will devote our time to the successful issue of the campaign; and, I assure you: had either of my clever democratic opponents been nominated, he would have received the full strength of our portion of the state. I thank you.

OUR SOLDIERS.

The Fort Wayne Heroes Complimented at San Francisco.

The press of San Francisco has been paying its undivided attention to the reunion of the Grand Army of the Republic and made an especially large spread in giving an account of the great parade. In speaking of the Indiana delegation the weekly Call says: "The Indiana delegation, which followed next in order, was under the leadership of Department Commander T. W. Bennett, and his assistant Adjutant General C. E. Whitson. Fully seventy-five veterans were in line, representing 450 posts, with a total membership of 19,190 men. The names of the other officers were: Past Department Commander, General D. W. Foster; Chief Aid, Major D. C. Anderson and Colonel C. A. Zollinger, of the National Council of Administration. The department colors, borne by Lieutenant John F. Davenport, consisted of a magnificent banner of navy blue silk, having the coat of arms of the department of Indiana embroidered in gold and silver. Each man wore the regulation hat and uniform, and bore a red badge, striped with yellow, with the word 'Indiana' printed on it in gold lettering. The men were stalwart and rugged veterans, and all marched with regularity and precision."

Forest Fires Still Spreading Through Michigan and Doing Great Damage.

KENDALLVILLE.

The Fixed Convention Held To-day.

Special to THE SENTINEL.

KENDALLVILLE, Aug. 12.—1:30 p. m.—The convention is well organized at 1:30 p. m. Judge McClellan, of Auburn, will be chosen chairman. The LaGrange delegation filled an entire coach. A band is now parading the streets. Probably Stanley, of Noble, or Ballou, will be nominated.

KENDALLVILLE, Aug. 12.—2 p. m.—The convention was called to order at 2 p. m. J. J. Lash, editor of the Albion Democrat, was chosen temporary chairman. Ex-Mayor Achele, of Kendallville, was made permanent chairman.

Resolutions arraigning Lowry were adopted.

H. C. Stanley, of Noble was nominated for congress. Mitchell's hall was partially filled.

FOREST FIRES

Sweeping Everything Before Them in Several Counties.

DETROIT, Aug.—The western part of Bay county is suffering considerably, crops are being destroyed and buildings are threatened by the forest fires. Many towns are cut off from telegraphic communication. Although the wind has cleared the air somewhat, the fires are still raging about Cheboygan. Immediate damage has been averted at Traverse City by a change of wind. The citizens worked all Tuesday night to save the eastern part of the city and a force of men worked all day yesterday. In several parts of Mecosta county great damage has been done to the poor. Buildings, fences, crops and logs, and in many places the woods are ablaze. In Newaygo county the fires continue destructive and are spreading over a large territory. In lake county many fine belts of timber have been burnt over.

ALMOST KILLED.

John F. Koehnemann Dumped in the River.

John F. Koehnemann lives at 17 McClellan street. He gathers offal and cleans vaults and dumps the filth into the Maumee river east of the city. He drove out to-day with a load and pulled his horses and truck on a platform overhanging the river. The bottom gave way and Koehnemann, horses and all, were dropped into the stream. The horses fell on the man, broke one of his legs and otherwise bruised him so that he can hardly live. Last year he was sick for seven months.

THERE was an incident just prior to the recent graduation exercises at Dartmouth College which prettily illustrated the proverbial gallantry of the students of that institution. Prof. Lord was delivering an exceedingly pleasant series of lectures on his last year's travels in Italy before an attentive audience of students. Behind the professor sat his pretty niece, who had accompanied him on his journey through Italy. The professor was advancing his view, quite a revolutionary one, by the way, that the amount of beauty of all sorts that is to be seen in Italy has been greatly exaggerated. "It is far from being a land where all is beautiful," said he. "Indeed, I will tell you what may surprise you—I did not see a single pretty woman during all my travels in Italy." This remark was followed by a chorus of slight coughs that arose from different parts of the room. The professor was about to proceed, when the chorus and coughs grew louder and stronger. He began to think that something was wrong, and then recalled what he had said, glancing around at his niece at the same moment. "During all my sojourn in Italy," he repeated, "I saw not a single beautiful woman who was a native of the country." This remark was followed by applause, and the professor went on with his lecture.

THE Marquis of Salisbury, upon whom the Gladstone mantle has fallen, is not as old as his predecessor, being but 56 years of age, yet he is a man of ability, and well-versed in English affairs. It is not the initiation for him in the position of Premier, as he, it will be remembered, temporarily relieved the "Grand Old Man" a year ago. Compared with his predecessor, he lacks nothing but age to equal him. He is, indeed, a brilliant English statesman, and though a Tory, will no doubt make a creditable officer. During the past, Salisbury has been connected with journalism, from which he won a creditable reputation. This alone would recommend him for almost any position his Government could call him to fill. Salisbury's first appearance in active politics was in 1853, when he was elected a member of Parliament from Stamford. He remained in that seat until he entered the House of Lords, in 1868, where he soon became noted as the champion of high-Tory principles. When Disraeli set up his new school of Toryism, Lord Salisbury denounced him as an adventurer. Salisbury was Secretary of State for India, but becoming disgusted with Disraeli's reform bill, he resigned the office, stigmatizing the bill as political treason. He, however, recovered his composure and accepted the office again in 1874. From that time hence Salisbury became a politician, and so aggressive, and uncompromising was his character, that it was difficult for Disraeli to hold him long in bounds. He has held other important positions in the English Government. In 1876 he was Ambassador to Constantinople, and in 1878 was Secretary of State for foreign affairs. In 1884 Salisbury was called upon by the Queen to form a new cabinet, and did some worthy acts as Prime Minister, notably on the Eastern question. English affairs are not likely to suffer in his hands now.

That Terrible Drain

Which scoula has upon the system must be arrested, and the blood must be purified, or serious consequences will ensue. For purifying and vitalizing effects, Hood's Sarsaparilla has been found superior to any other preparation. It expels every trace of impurity from the blood, and bestows new life and vigor upon every function of the body, enabling it to entirely overcome disease.

Orth Stein was recently seen at a restaurant at Deming, New Mexico, and was on his way to California.

THE PRESIDENT'S COUNTRY HOME.

How His Cottage Has Been Enlarged and Beautified.
On the estate of twenty-seven acres purchased by President Cleveland on Georgetown Heights was a double two-story stone cottage having nine large rooms. Shortly after the purchase President Cleveland intrusted to Messrs. William M. Poindexter & Co., of Washington, the duty of preparing plans for completely remodeling and extending the cottage.

THE PRESIDENT'S HOUSE WHEN PURCHASED.
We present here a view of the house at the time of its purchase by the president. In another is shown the remodeled structure which retains scarcely a vestige of the original dwelling. The two-story stone house seems to have entirely disappeared, and on the site stands as beautiful a suburban villa as can be found anywhere. There are few localities in this part of the country where the stretch of landscape is as diversified as it is at this elevation looking southward from the president's private residence. Other executives have been owners of real estate at the capital, but President Cleveland is the first to build a country home for himself in the neighborhood of the White House.

THE REMODELED HOUSE.
The improvement in the house has been secured through the addition of a roomy attic story and two-story piazzas on two sides of the building, facing south and west. A new addition has been made to the extension, also to be constructed of stone, which will contain the kitchen, with servants' rooms overhead. The interior of the building has been arranged to suit the wants and tastes of Mrs. Cleveland, whose interest in her suburban home is not less than that of the president. Nearly every afternoon since the workmen began operations Mrs. Cleveland has found it a pleasure to watch the progress of their labors, while the president also finds a new diversion from the cares of state in seeing the homely cottage transformed into a beautiful dwelling. Of course all the modern improvements, conveniences and appliances for household comfort will be put in. When completed there will be a dining room, reception room, two parlors, one of which the president intends to occupy as his study, on the lower floor, besides the pantries and large kitchen. On the second floor will be three chambers and dressing rooms, bath rooms, closets and servants' rooms. The attic story will contain four commodious chambers. From the road-side the view will be very picturesque, with a good setting of trees and an extensive sloping lawn on all sides. The grounds have been very much improved during the president's possession of the property, and landscape gardeners have been engaged to further adorn the grounds and lay out new approaches from the main road to the building.

The president expects to take possession of the house about the 1st of October, and during Mrs. Cleveland's visit next month arrangements will be made for furnishing her suburban home according to her own taste.

Pond's Extract Has the Power to Heal
The aches and pains and wounds we feel.
For forty years has stood the test,
And ranks for general use the best.
Ask every grandmother, mother and wife
What medicine best they've known all their life.
You will find that the popular verdict will be:
"O, give me Pond's Extract!"
Pond's Extract for me.

United States Marshal Ed Hawkins has a narrow escape in the senate. The vote on his confirmation was 22 to 21.

In the Hop Plasters the virtues of fresh hops are combined with strengthening and stimulating balsams, and its cures of weak back, pain in the side, rheumatism, neuralgia or pain in the chest are simply marvelous, it being more efficacious and thorough than any liniment or liquid remedies. You'll say so after using.

Charles Wicks, of Albion, committed suicide at Ligonier last Friday by taking laudanum. He parted with his wife some time ago, and this preyed on his mind.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE Cod-Liver Oil, With Hypophosphates, In General Debility, Emaciation, Consumption and Wasting in Children, is a most valuable food and medicine. It creates an appetite for food, strengthens the nervous system and builds up the body. It is prepared in a palatable form and prescribed universally by physicians. Take no other.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

For over a quarter of a century Physicians have prescribed NICHOLS' BARK AND IRON, as a reliable and valuable remedy for dyspepsia and general debility.

Hay Fever.
Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me by my druggist as a preventative to hay fever. Have been using it as directed and have found it a specific for that much dreaded and loathsome disease. For ten years or more I have been a great sufferer each year, from August 6th till frost, and have tried many alleged remedies for its cure, but Ely's Cream Balm is the only preventative I have ever found. Hay fever sufferers ought to know of its efficacy.—F. B. Ainsworth, of F. B. Ainsworth & Co., Publishers, Indianapolis, Ind.

For Governor of Tennessee.

A. A. TAYLOR.
The Republican candidate for governor of Tennessee is a native of that state, and but 37 years of age. He is by profession a farmer and lawyer. At the age of 16 he canvassed the north to raise funds for the East Tennessee Relief association, and the executive ability he displayed on that mission for one so young pre-figured a career for him of great public usefulness. He was elected to the state legislature in 1875, but declined a second nomination. He has been a state elector on several occasions, and canvassed the state as a stump speaker. Mr. Taylor is a nephew of Landon C. Haynes, and inherits much of his uncle's genius. Mr. Taylor lives on a farm inherited by his wife, which was once owned by John Sevier, a former governor of Tennessee. He has begun an active and aggressive canvass already and expects to bring his state over to the Republican column.

DYSPEPSIA

It is a dangerous as well as distressing complaint. It impedes the food, by impairing nutrition, and depressing the tone of the system, to prepare the way for rapid decline.
BROWN'S IRON BITTERS
THE BEST TONIC
Physicians and druggists recommend it.
Quickly and completely cures Dyspepsia in all its forms. Heartburn, Belching, Tasting the food, etc. It enriches and purifies the blood, stimulates the appetite, and aids the assimilation of food. Rev. J. F. ROBERTS, the honored pastor of the First Reformed Church, Baltimore, Md., says: "Having used Brown's Iron Bitters for Dyspepsia and indigestion I take great pleasure in recommending it highly. Also consider it a splendid tonic and invigorator, and very successful in curing Dyspepsia, and as a tonic."
Genuine has above Trade Mark and crossed red lines on wrapper. Take no other. Made only by BROWN CHEMICAL CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

ROSS RAYMOND'S EXPLOITS.

One Whose Trail of Rascalities Extends Across the Continent.

Ross Raymond, one of the most successful swindlers of the age, is now in jail in New York for indulging in his favorite pastime of passing bogus checks. Through the courtesy of Inspector Byrnes we are enabled to give his portrait, as secured for the Rogues' Gallery, in the hope that in case he escapes conviction this time newspaper men and hotel keepers, whom he has a perfect mania for swindling, will be chary of him.

Raymond's aliases would make a city directory in themselves. His American career began as a reporter on a San Francisco paper in 1872. Being possessed of a good presence and an exceptionally fluent pen, he earned money rapidly, but here, as elsewhere, his success as a newspaper writer simply enlarged his facilities for swindling.

When his inquiries began to pile up so that there was danger of his being imprisoned, he turned his face eastward, leaving a trail of swindles across the continent and along the Atlantic seaboard and in Europe. His exploits will be recalled in Virginia City and on The Denver Tribune, in Ogden, Omaha, Chicago and on The Times and Enquirer, of Cincinnati. Here he got into an altercation with the circus owner Robinson's son, and a scar which he received then has done him good service in his stories of his alleged war experiences.

In 1877 he was on The Baltimore American and later in Philadelphia, and finally on The New York Herald, where he wrote the details of President Garfield's sickness and death. He was doing first class work, making $125 a week and swindling right and left. About this time he learned that a Miss Lizzie Linderman, whom he had known in California had fallen for $100,000. He made violent love to her on paper, induced her to come east, married her and squandered her fortune. He then paid attention to a doctor's wife. The doctor, getting one of Raymond's pictures from her room, used it for pistol practice for several weeks so as to familiarize himself with Raymond's features. Afterward he is said to have used the pistol on himself.

His career from this time on could scarcely be credited. He made a tour of the southern states marked by a constant succession of swindles and escapes. After touching at Boston he started a news bureau in London. He was next our correspondent in Egypt. Then he turned up in Australia and escaped trouble there by fleeing to the Sandwich Islands. He was next heard of in the East Indies. In Calcutta he ran a house with forty-eight servants and the richest of equipages. In 1884 he loomed up again in Paris in a red fez and Turkish costume as Raymond Bey, a representative of the khedive of Egypt. In a few days he disappeared, leaving fabulous hotel and other bills unpaid. He then made a raid on our foreign consuls and few of them escaped.

Raymond has undoubted genius as a swindler. It was the experience of those who knew him that he could go into a place a perfect stranger and in a few hours so work upon the credulity of people he met that they would be more than willing to trust him with anything. As he usually wanted to be trusted, this mesmerizing faculty stood him in excellent service. It is estimated that only a small portion of his exploits are known. It is to be hoped he will now be effectually caged.

ROSS RAYMOND.

SOLICITOR GENERAL JENKS.

The Senate Confirms John Goode's Successor Without Debate.

When the senate refused to confirm Mr. Goode, of Virginia, after he had held the important position of solicitor general for a year, it was supposed there would be some difficulty in securing an incumbent for the position that would meet with their approval, but on receiving the nomination of George A. Jenks, of Pennsylvania, the senate paid him the high compliment of confirming his nomination immediately.

GEORGE A. JENKS.

Mr. Jenks had but recently retired from the office of assistant secretary of the interior to take charge of the estate of the late Mr. Dubois, his millionaire client, but it afterward leaked out that the position was not an agreeable one to him. The position of solicitor general has a salary of $7,000 attached to it. He is also paid $10,000 a year for managing the Dubois estate.

CASUS BELLI CUTTING.

The American Editor Whose Detention Has Raised Such a Hubbub.

The arrest and detention of Editor Cutting by the Mexican authorities has attracted the attention of the whole continent, and illustrates the bitter feeling that exists between neighbors on the banks of the Rio Grande. This animosity comes from the long series of depredations which the lawless bands on both sides of the river have practiced on one another for years.

The facts in the present rupture are about as follows: Mr. Cutting, while an American citizen, lives in the Mexican town El Paso del Norte, and edits and publishes a newspaper called El Centinela. In this journal, which is printed in the Spanish language, he attacked a rival named Medina, who had issued a prospectus for the publication of another newspaper.

He denounced the new enterprise as a scheme for swindling advertisers. Medina promptly had recourse to a Mexican court, and forced his assailant to sign a retraction. Mr. Cutting immediately crossed the Rio Grande, and published in an American newspaper known as The El Paso Herald a card reiterating his assertion that Medina was a swindler. On Mr. Cutting's return to Mexican soil he was arrested a second time on Mexican soil and kept in jail a month, when he was offered by the supreme court of Chihuahua his freedom upon bail. This he is reported to have refused, on the ground that he had appealed to the United States government for redress, which seems to be slow coming, and in the meantime the whole border becomes inflamed. It is safe to say that this affair will be diplomatically healed between the governments, but that the hostility which it has engendered will cool without some blood spilling is not so certain.

HERBERT SPENCER.

Evolutionist, Philosopher and Author of the "Principles of Sociology."

HERBERT SPENCER.

One of the great minds of England is passing away from among men. Herbert Spencer has been troubled for years with persistent insomnia and nervousness. When he visited America in 1883 he carried a hop pillow with him everywhere to produce sleep. But the obstinate trouble seems to be getting the better of him at last. Herbert Spencer is not a very old man, as we count age now. He was born in Derby, England, in 1820. He is not as old as Gladstone by eleven years, nor has his life been passed amid anything like the wear and tear through which the great premier has lightly carried his 76 years.

Mr. Spencer was educated by his father, who was a teacher in Derby. He early showed great fondness for mathematics and natural history. He was intended for a civil engineer, and engaged in that profession at first. But so many other young men crowded into it that the field was overstocked. Young Spencer abandoned it to try literature. If he had had his beginning in our time he would have found the journalistic and literary field crowded to such a degree that the civil engineer's profession would be emptiness in comparison.

Next to Charles Darwin, Herbert Spencer has had influence on the scientific thought of his time. The two minds were similar, except that Darwin's ran rather to the field of active experiment and research among animals and things, Spencer's more to developing philosophic thought in the study and library. Spencer was as ardent an evolutionist as Darwin, but he was more interested in evolution as applied to government and society. When only 22 years old he published a series of papers on the proper sphere of government. He took the humane and enlightened ground that too much government was worse than none at all.

His first important work was published in 1850, when he was 30 years old. It was "Social Statics; or the Conditions Essential to Human Happiness Specified, and the First of Them Developed." It is a striking fact in the career of this great thinker that that first book of his has never been excelled, if indeed, it has been equaled, by anything he wrote later.

Little is known of his private life; at least it seems as if there was little to know. He is a quiet, elderly bachelor, and has dwelt in a London lodging house time out of mind.

FOR PUBLIC PRINTER.

Gen. Rogers, of Buffalo, Likely to Succeed S. P. Rounds.

The position of public printer is considered a very important one in the government, as he controls about 2,500 employees and expends over $2,000,000 a year in the work of printing and binding the various government publications. Mr. S. P. Rounds having resigned, his successor is said to be Gen. Rogers, of Buffalo.

GEN. WILLIAM FINDLAY ROGERS.

William Findlay Rogers was born in Forks township, Easton, Pa., Jan. 1, 1820. His grandfather, Joseph Rogers, came to America from Ireland in 1796. His father, Thomas J. Rogers, was by trade a printer. He was an officer in the war of 1812. Gen. William F. Rogers imbibed his military spirit from both his father's and his mother's relatives.

His first work was done on The Eastern Whig as printer's apprentice. In 1834 he went to Philadelphia and obtained work on The Philadelphia Inquirer. In 1840 he came to Buffalo and began "sticking type" on The Courier. This he left for work on The Republic, a paper then entirely independent of The Courier, but which was afterwards consolidated with its larger rival, and which has now suspended. Gen. Rogers established the first Sunday newspaper in Buffalo—The Weekly Republican. This paper, however, soon ceased publication. He then went back on The Courier, where he remained until the outbreak of the rebellion.

Shortly after his return from the war he was appointed city auditor. At the next election he was made city controller, and afterwards was elected mayor. In 1882 he was chosen to represent the district in congress, whither his father had been elected at the beginning of the century. He was appointed major general of the Fourth division N. G., S. N. Y., in January, 1879.

We differ in creed and politics, but we are a unit all the same on the desirableness of a fine head of hair. If you mourn the loss of his blessing and ornament, a bottle or two of Parker's Hair Balm will make you look as you did in the dear old days. It is worth trying. It is the only standard 50c article for the hair.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferers at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub wakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Jan. 19-dawly.

A Deluded People.

We do not mean to intimate that all the so-called remedies for dyspepsia are valueless, but human credulity is so strong, that some unscrupulous persons trade upon the fears of the weak and debilitated. Among the things which appeal so strongly to this weakness are Bitters. The very name is in their favor. The mode of life of the average American is of such a character, that he is constantly in need of a tonic. He is rushed at his business, swallows his meal hastily and without any thought as to the capacity of his stomach for digestion, takes little rest, and necessarily feels lipped; is subject to headache, and takes often a gloomy view of things generally. In such cases he resorts to bitters, under the delusion that they will act on the secretions of the stomach and give the system new strength and energy. The writer recently purchased samples of four of the most widely advertised bitters in the market, and the simple chemical analysis to which they were subjected showed that they contained about 30 per cent. (the amount the Government allows) of the most poisonous and adulterated alcohol, and that the residuum consisted of various foreign substances, which were simply added as flavoring extracts, to disguise the taste of the original compound. The value which so-called bitters are supposed to have is of a purely fictitious character. In fact, in time they irritate and injure the delicate membrane of the stomach, so vitiating the taste that the palate soon cannot distinguish between good and bad. These decoctions are consumed principally by the debilitated, the convalescent, the depressed and particularly by aged people and weak women and others to whom a stimulant is indispensable. Now, while alcohol, especially in the form of whisky, is acknowledged to be the best known stimulant, and is prescribed and used by physicians for this purpose everywhere, we can't conceive why people will insist upon taking the alcohol in the form of a decoction, the compounding of which they know nothing and which, as shown by analysis, contains fish oil, turpentine, catechu and poisons of the most deadly kind. It would be far better for them to come out boldly and use the pure article, something made from malt in which there is no fusel oil. There may be a little difficulty in obtaining an article of this kind, as there is only one firm in the country, i. e., the discoverers of Duffy's pure malt whisky, which is still it and which combines food and stimulating qualities.

GRATEFUL-COMFORTING. EPPS'S COCOA.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicious and healthful beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack every one who is a weak point. We may escape many a danger by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."

For Secretary of State, ROBERT W. MIERS.
For Auditor of State, CHARLES A. MUNSON.
For Treasurer of State, THOMAS BYRNE.
For Clerk of Supreme Court, MARTIN J. KREUGER.
For Attorney General, HUGH D. McMULLEN.
For Superintendent of Public Instruction, ANDREW M. SWEENEY.

The democratic state ticket heads THE SENTINEL columns and it is with the brightest prospects of success it is placed there. No cleaner, better or more popular democratic ticket was ever presented for the suffrage of the people of Indiana, and a sketch of the gentlemen will interest:

JOHN C. NELSON.

Captain John C. Nelson was born in Adams county, Ohio, February 23, 1811. His life was without important or noteworthy events until he came to the age of twenty, when the war breaking out, he enlisted October 22, 1861, in the Seventieth Ohio Volunteers. He was gradually promoted from the ranks until he reached the office of captain, which rank he held until he was mustered out August 22, 1865. He moved to Logansport in July, 1866, and entered into the boot and shoe trade, which he followed for a year. He began the study of law in the office of McConnell & Winfield, and afterward graduated from the Albany law school in June, 1870. He was actively engaged in the practice of law until 1877, when he was appointed judge of the superior court of Cass county by Governor Williams. He served for two years under this appointment and was then elected his own successor. He served as judge during the four years' term for which he was elected, when by special enactment of the legislature the court was abolished, when he again resumed the active practice of the law. He served a term of four years as city attorney, and is now of the firm of Nelson & Myers, and has one of the best practices in Cass county. He has been requested to accept the nomination for congress, but has at all times declined, as he has a similar invitation to serve as state senator. He is married and has five children. He was wounded twice during the war, the first time being through the back on the 28th day of July, 1864, while in front of Atlanta, on account of which wound he now draws a pension. He served on General Hazen's staff as commissary of musters during the last year of the war, and was with Sherman from first to last. He is now senior vice commander of the G. A. R., of Logansport. He has always taken an active part in the state campaigns, and is well known throughout the northern part of the state for his ability as a public speaker.

JOHN R. COFFROTH.

John R. Coffroth, one of the ablest lawyers of the state, was born at Greencastle, Pa., August 11, 1828. His father and grandfather, who were of German descent, were natives of Maryland, and his mother, who was of English parentage, was a native of Virginia. Mr. Coffroth received a good education and began the study of law with Hon. James X. McLauchan, at Chambersburg, Pa. He was admitted to the bar in November, 1848, and in May, 1849, he moved to Huntington, this state, where he commenced the practice of law. In February, 1860, he moved to Lafayette where he has since resided and engaged in the practice of his profession. He was admitted to practice in the supreme court in 1861, and in the United States supreme court in 1866. He has always taken great interest in educational matters. He was a trustee of Purdue University for several years, and part of that time was president of the board. He has been a member of the legislature several terms. In 1868 he was a candidate for the office of attorney general, and in 1868 and 1872 he was on the democratic ticket as a candidate for elector for the state at large, each time making a canvass of the state. In 1878 he was the unanimous choice of the democracy of the district for congress, but he declined the honor on account of private business. He was married to Susan Randolph in 1864, and has two children, a son and a daughter. He has made for himself an enviable reputation as an advocate, being clear, concise and fluent. He is possessed of great energy and never permits himself to become discouraged or overcome. His practice has been large and varied. He weighs matters deliberately before taking action, but when a conclusion is formed for practical purposes, he moves with little respect to adverse circumstances. He has been a democrat and an active partisan, but has generally avoided political office, although he has been supported by the party for public position a number of times.

ROBERT W. MIERS.

Robert W. Miers was born in Decatur county, this state, January 27, 1818. He was raised on the farm, and received a good common school education. At the age of twenty-one years he went to the academy at Hartsville to complete his studies and prepare himself for a course in college. In 1838 he entered the state university at Bloomington, and graduated in 1839. He graduated in the law department of the college the following year. In 1873 he was elected prosecuting attorney for the district, which was composed of Monroe, Lawrence and Orange counties, and was regarded as one of the reliable republican districts. He was re-elected in 1875, and in 1877 was elected representative of Monroe county, being the only democrat elected from that county since the war. He has twice been chosen trustee for the state university, and is now on his second term. Upon the death of Judge Wilson, of the tenth judicial district, he was appointed to fill the unexpired term. He is married and has two children.

CHARLES A. MUNSON.

The candidate for state auditor, Charles A. Munson, was born and raised in Fort Wayne, and at the age of fifteen he became the support of his widowed mother and her family. He clerked for various firms until he was nineteen years old, when he enlisted in the United States navy at Cincinnati, and was assigned to the ironclad Chillicothe on the Mississippi river. He was rapidly promoted here, and in a short time he became the third officer of the vessel. He resigned in 1863 because of disability and after the war he entered into a wholesale grocery partnership at Fort Wayne. In 1874 he went to the council in Fort Wayne, and in 1876 and 1878 he was elected sheriff of Allen county, the last time being elected by a 3,864 majority. In 1880 he was a member of the state central committee. He is a courteous, large-hearted, generous man, as companionable as one could wish, and a strong man on any ticket. He has many personal characteristics which make friends for him in politics where other men fail, and he is in every way deserving of the nomination by the convention.

THOMAS B. BYRNE.

Hon. Thomas B. Byrne, the nominee for state treasurer, was born in Newark, N. J., August 24, 1814. His father died when he was but five years of age, and his mother moving to New York City, he was left with her and remained there until he was nineteen years of age. He was then sent west to represent a large tobacco and cotton firm during the war, which position he held till 1869, when he went into the cotton and tobacco business for himself, and in which he is still engaged. He has held prominent positions in the Vanderburg democratic organizations, having been chairman of the county conventions several times, and was a member of the democratic state central committee in 1874 and 1876. He was a candidate for the nomination for state treasurer before the convention four years ago, and his prominence in politics and his success as an organizer, a leader and a warrior for the principles of his party have drawn around him a host of friends who are to be counted all over the state. He is a single man, whole souled, hearty, generous, firm and aggressive in politics, and will prove to be a tower of strength, not only in his county and district, but throughout all the borders of the state.

MARTIN J. KREUGER.

Martin J. Kreuger, the nominee for clerk of the supreme court, is thirty-three years of age and has always been a democrat, casting his first vote for Tilden and Hendricks. His family came from Germany and located in Michigan City in 1864, and in 1870 Kreuger started out to make a living. He worked at different things for a while, and finally started west, in a special (freight) car. At Matteson, Ill., he responded to an urgent call from the conductor to "get off" and walking to Chicago, a distance of twenty-six miles, he borrowed $5 from his brother and followed the "Star of Empire" as far west as Mendota, Ill., where he found employment as a farm hand at $13 per month; he continued to work on farms for some time, but afterwards returned to Michigan City and studied law. He was elected city clerk in 1879, again in 1881, and again in 1883; representative of Laporte county in 1884 and a member of the common council of Michigan City in 1885, this unanimously and in a republican ward. He acted as deputy county treasurer continually since 1878 under three different county treasurers, and as such has annually collected and accounted for some $20,000 to $30,000 in taxes to the entire satisfaction of his principal and the people. For a brief period he published the Freie Presse, a German paper, but being unable to give his personal attention to the paper he merged it with the Laporte Journal.

HUGH D. McMULLEN.

Hon. Hugh D. McMullen was born in Dearborn county, December 11, 1836. He was raised on the farm, and in 1858 entered the freshman class at Ashbury university, and at the completion of the year's course he entered the state university, where he graduated in 1862. He studied law in his own office and never had a dollar to aid him except what he earned with his own hands. Eighteen years ago he was elected prosecuting attorney, and was a member of the two last legislatures of the state, the first session serving as chairman of the judiciary committee and in the last as chairman of the committee on ways and means. Mr. McMullen is of Irish descent, his grandfather having been a native of Belfast, Ireland. Mr. McMullen is married and has a family of seven boys.

PROFESSOR ANDREW M. SWEENEY.

Prof. A. M. Sweeney, nominated for the office of superintendent of public instruction, is about thirty-three years old, and one of the best educated men in the state. He speaks French and German fluently, is a fine Latin and Greek scholar and perfectly familiar with the educational interests of the state and the country. He has been connected with the schools of southern Indiana for the past fifteen years, having begun his labors as a teacher in the common schools, afterwards becoming principal of the Jasper high school and subsequently superintendent of Dubois county, which position he now holds. He has been unwavering in his devotion to his profession, and has done much toward elevating the standard of education and developing the schools of his county. He possesses good social qualities, makes friends easily and apparently without effort, and is full of energy and vim. If Professor Sweeney were a politician he would fill the popular idea of a "hustler."

Against Mexico.

The Imprisoned Knights of Labor Released from Jail at Parsons.

SENATOR BECK

Compliments the Democratic Administration.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 12.—Senator Beck informed a Sun correspondent that he does not believe any man with ordinary intelligence can question for one moment, the aggressiveness of the present administration in battling with all public questions, be they foreign or domestic. He stated most emphatically that there is no ground for doubting the courage of the state department in dealing with the Cutting case; on the contrary the senator is inclined to think that the secretary of state has, if anything, been too aggressive in the Mexican matter.

He says the United States should try to induce Mexico to repeal the law which renders an American citizen punishable in Mexico for his utterances in the United States. It is a bad law and will create mischief so long as it remains upon the statute book, but we cannot find anything by declaring war against Mexico, for if we did we would simply place ourselves in the attitude of a big man picking a quarrel with a small boy.

Knights of Labor Released.

PARSONS, Kan., Aug. 12.—The executive committee of the Knights of Labor, who for the past forty-five days have been confined in the county jail for non-payment of fines imposed for conspiracy against the Missouri Railway company, were today released by the county commissioners. The Knights of Labor were given to understand that if they pay the costs of the suit the committee would be released, the fines to be held against them to secure future good behavior.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—England has proclaimed a protectorate over the Ellice Islands in the South Pacific ocean.

SACRED SERVICE.

Young Catholic Women Join the Sisterhood and Pledge Their Lives to God.

Redolent with fresh cut flowers, beautiful altar laces, burning tapers and golden vestments of the great prelate, aided by the supplied priest, the chapel of St. Joseph's convent, the mother house in America of the poor handmaids of Christ, a chapel filled with pious worshippers, this morning presented a scene lovely to behold and long to be remembered. A number of happy maidens gave themselves to God, and by their holy promises vowed to serve the poor, and them, too, that die of pestilence, whether it be cholera, small-pox, the deadly yellow fever or the black crime of manslaughter. This good sister of charity is everywhere, and whilst she is ubiquitous, she is everywhere the holy and cheerful religious lady. "Cheerfulness is a blessing," and surely the good and holy ladies under the wimple of St. Joseph's poor handmaid community, carry not only cheerfulness, but edification and the halo of sanctified happiness to souls that are hampered by the worldly spirit, whether among them that have despaired of God's mercy, met with accident on rail or boat, in matters spiritual or civil, in neglect of the teachings of ancestors or in failure to observe ever God's and neighbor's law of charity—everywhere these holy ladies of God's choice, minister to the wayfaring man.

Right Rev. Bishop Dwenger, whose pleasure as head of the great diocese of Fort Wayne it is to preside over such important ceremonies, was the celebrant of the grand rite of the Catholic church prescribed on such occasions. He was aided by the Rev. Father Heite, of Lafayette, superior in that city, of the Fathers of St. Francis, who have charge of the church of St. Boniface, which

SPECIAL TO THE SENTINEL.
KENDALLVILLE, Aug. 12.—1:30 p. m.—The convention is well organized at 1:30 p. m. Judge McClellan, of Auburn, will be chosen chairman. The LaGrange delegation filled an entire coach. A band is now parading the streets. Probably Stanley, of Noble, or Ballou, will be nominated.

KENDALLVILLE, Aug. 12.—2 p. m.—The convention was called to order at 2 p. m. J. J. Lash, editor of the Albion Democrat, was chosen temporary chairman. Ex-Mayor Achele, of Kendallville, was made permanent chairman. Resolutions arraigning Lowry were adopted.

H. C. Stanley, of Noble was nominated for congress. Mitchell's hall was partially filled.

FOREST FIRES

Sweeping Everything Before Them in Several Counties.

DETROIT, Aug.—The western part of Bay county is suffering considerably, crops are being destroyed and buildings are threatened by the forest fires. Many towns are cut off from telegraphic communication. Although the wind has cleared the air somewhat, the fires are still raging about Cheboygan. Immediate damage has been averted at Traverse City by a change of wind. The citizens worked all Tuesday night to save the eastern part of the city and a force of men worked all day yesterday. In several parts of Mecosta county great damage has been done to the poor. Buildings, fences, crops and logs, and in many places the woods are ablaze. In Newaygo county the fires continue destructive and are spreading over a large territory. In Lake county many fine belts of timber have been burnt over.

ROSS RAYMOND'S EXPLOITS.

One Whose Trail of Baseballitis Extends Across the Continent.

Ross Raymond, one of the most successful swindlers of the age, is now in jail in New York for indulging in his favorite pastime of passing bogus checks. Through the courtesy of Inspector Byrnes we are enabled to give his portrait, as secured for the Rogues' Gallery, in the hope that in case he escapes conviction this time newspaper men and hotel keepers, whom he has a perfect mania for swindling, will be chary of him.

Raymond's aliases would make a city directory in themselves. His American career began as a reporter on a San Francisco paper in 1872.

Being possessed of a good presence and an exceptionally fluent pen, he earned money rapidly, but here, as elsewhere, his success as a newspaper writer simply enlarged his facilities for swindling. When his iniquities began to pile up so that there was danger of his being imprisoned, he turned his face eastward, leaving a trail of swindles across the continent and along the Atlantic seaboard and in Europe. His exploits will be recalled in Virginia City and on the Denver Tribune, in Ogden, Omaha, Chicago and on the Times and Enquirer, of Cincinnati. Here he got into an altercation with the circus owner Robinson's son, and a scar which he received then has done him good service in his stories of his alleged war experiences.

In 1877 he was on the Baltimore American and later in Philadelphia, and finally on the New York Herald, where he wrote the details of President Garfield's sickness and death. He was doing first class work, making $125 a week and swindling right and left. About this time he learned that a Miss Lizzie Landerman, whom he had known in California had fallen heir to $100,000. He made violent love to her on paper, induced her to come east, married her and squandered her fortune. He then paid attention to a doctor's wife. The doctor, getting one of Raymond's pictures from her room, used it for pistol practice for several weeks so as to familiarize himself with Raymond's features. Afterward he is said to have used the pistol on himself.

His career from this time on could scarcely be credited. He made a tour of the southern states marked by a constant succession of swindles and escapes. After touching at Boston he started a news bureau in London. He was next war correspondent in Egypt. Then he turned up in Australia and escaped trouble there by fleeing to the Sandwich Islands. He was next heard of in the East Indies. In Calcutta he ran a house with forty-eight servants and the richest of equipages. In 1894 he loomed up again in Paris in a red fox and Turkish costume as Raymond Ray, representative of the Khedive of Egypt. In a few days he disappeared, leaving fabulous hotel and other bills unpaid. He then made a raid on our foreign consuls and few of them escaped.

Raymond has undoubted genius as a swindler. It was the experience of those who know him that he could go into a place a perfect stranger and in a few hours so work upon the credulity of people he met that they would be more than willing to trust him with anything. As he usually wanted to be trusted, this mesmerizing faculty stood him in excellent service. It is estimated that only a small portion of his exploits are known. It is to be hoped he will now be effectually caged.

ROSS RAYMOND.

SOLICITOR GENERAL JENKS.

The Senate Confirms John Jenks's Successor Without Debate.

When the senate refused to confirm Mr. Goode, of Virginia, after he had held the important position of solicitor general for a year, it was supposed there would be some difficulty in securing an incumbent for the position that would meet with their approval, but on receiving the nomination of George A. Jenks, of Pennsylvania, the senate paid him the high compliment of confirming his nomination immediately.

GEORGE A. JENKS.

Mr. Jenks had but recently retired from the office of assistant secretary of the interior to take charge of the estate of the late Mr. Dubois, his millionaire client, but it afterward leaked out that the position was not an agreeable one to him. The position of solicitor general has a salary of $7,000 attached to it. He is also paid $10,000 a year for managing the Dubois estate.

CASUS BELLI CUTTING.

The American Editor Whose Detention Has Raised Such a Hubbub.

The arrest and detention of Editor Cutting by the Mexican authorities has attracted the attention of the whole continent, and illustrates the bitter feeling that exists between neighbors on the banks of the Rio Grande. This animosity comes from the long series of depredations which the lawless bands on both sides of the river have practiced on one another for years.

The facts in the present rupture are about as follows: Mr. Cutting, while an American citizen, lives in the Mexican town El Paso del Norte, and publishes a newspaper called El Centinela. In this journal, which is printed in the Spanish language, he attacked a rival named Medina, who had issued a prospectus for the publication of another newspaper. He denounced the new enterprise as a scheme for swindling investors. Medina promptly had recourse to a Mexican court, and forced his assailant to sign a retraction. Mr. Cutting immediately crossed the Rio Grande, and published in an American newspaper known as the El Paso Herald a card reiterating his assertion that Medina was a swindler. On Mr. Cutting's return to Mexican soil he was arrested a second time on Mexican soil and kept in jail a month, when he was offered by the supreme court of Chihuahua his freedom

HERBERT SPENCER.

Evolutionist, Philosopher and Author of the "Principles of Sociology."

HERBERT SPENCER.

One of the great minds of England is passing away from among men. Herbert Spencer has been troubled for years with persistent insomnia and nervousness. When he visited America in 1882 he carried a hop pillow with him everywhere to produce sleep. But the obstinate trouble seems to be getting the better of him at last. Herbert Spencer is not a very old man, as we count age now. He was born in Derby, England, in 1820. He is not as old as Gladstone by eleven years, nor has his life been passed amid anything like the wear and tear through which the great premier has lightly carried his 70 years.

Mr. Spencer was educated by his father, who was a teacher in Derby. He early showed great fondness for mathematics and natural history.

He was intended for a civil engineer, and engaged in that profession at first. But so many other young men crowded into it that the field was overstocked. Young Spencer abandoned it to try literature. If he had had his beginning in our time he would have found the journalistic and literary field crowded to such a degree that the civil engineer's profession would be emptier in comparison.

Next to Charles Darwin, Herbert Spencer has had influence on the scientific thought of his time. The two minds were similar, except that Darwin's ran rather to the field of active experiment and research among animals and things, Spencer's more to developing philosophical thought in the study and library. Spencer was as ardent an evolutionist as Darwin, but he was more interested in evolution as applied to government and society. When only 23 years old he published a series of papers on the proper sphere of government. He took the humane and enlightened ground that too much government was worse than none at all.

His first important work was published in 1850, when he was 30 years old. It was "Social Statics; or the Conditions Essential to Human Happiness Specified, and the First of Them Developed." It is a striking fact in the career of this great thinker that that first book of his has never been excelled, if indeed, it has been equaled, by anything he wrote later.

Little is known of his private life; at least it seems as if there was little to know. He is a quiet, elderly bachelor, and has dwelt in a London lodging house time out of mind.

FOR PUBLIC PRINTER.

Gen. Rogers, of Buffalo, Likely to Succeed S. P. Rounds.

The position of public printer is considered a very important one in the government, as he controls about 2,500 employees and expends over $2,000,000 a year in the work of printing and binding the various government publications. Mr. S. P. Rounds having resigned, his successor is said to be Gen. Rogers, of Buffalo.

GEN. WILLIAM FINDLAY ROGERS.

William Findlay Rogers was born in Forks township, Eastern Pa., Jan. 1, 1820. His grandfather, Joseph Rogers, came to America from Ireland in 1796. His father, Thomas J. Rogers, was by trade a printer. He was an officer in the war of 1812. Gen. William F. Rogers inherited his military spirit from both his father's and his mother's relatives.

His first work was done on The Eastern Whig as printer's apprentice. In 1834 he went to Philadelphia and obtained work on The Philadelphia Inquirer. In 1846 he came to Buffalo and began "sticking type" on The Courier. This he left for work on The Republic, a paper then entirely independent of The Courier, but which was afterwards consolidated with its larger rival, and which has now succeeded. Gen. Rogers established the first Sunday newspaper in Buffalo—The Weekly Republican. This paper, however, soon ceased publication. He then went back on The Courier, where he remained until the outbreak of the rebellion.

Shortly after his return from the war he was appointed city auditor. At the next election he was made city comptroller, and afterwards was elected mayor. In 1883 he was chosen to represent the district in congress, whither his father had been elected at the beginning of the century. He was appointed major general of the Fourth division N. G., S. N. Y., in January, 1879.

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING.

EPPE'S COCOA.

Breakfast.

We differ in creed and politics, but we are a unit all the same on the desirableness of a fine head of hair. If you mourn the loss of this blessing and ornament, a bottle or two of Parker's Hair Balsam will make you look as you did in the dear old days. It is worth trying. It is the only standard 50-cent article for the hair.

Advice to Mothers.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferers at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little mother wakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Jan. 19-codawl7.

Small army when boiling water or milk. Sold only in half pound tins by grocers, labeled thus: JAMES EPPE & CO., Homoeopathic Chemists, London, England.

The Warren Summer Resort association having received word that the hull of their new boat was completed, Wm. H. Gilson went to Chicago to inspect it, and if acceptable, to ship it to its destination.
